

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

GREEK LESSONS:

CONSISTING

OF SELECTIONS FROM XENOPHON'S ANABASIS, WITH DIRECTIONS FOR THE STUDY OF THE GRAMMAR, NOTES, EXERCISES IN TRANSLATION FROM ENGLISH INTO GREEK, AND A VOCABULARY

By ALPHEUS CROSBY,

PROFESSOR OF THE GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE IN DARTMOUTH COLLEGE.

"The language of Xenophon is remarkable for sweetness, variety, perspicuity, and elegance; — rich without a superfluity of figures, and smooth without sameness and tedious uniformity. His sentiments are such as might have been expected from the most faithful and judicious of all the disciples of Socrates. They are just, elevated, and apposite; and do credit both to his heart and his understanding." — Dunbar.

"Xenophon's pure strain,

Like the clear brook that steals along the vale."

PREFACE.

Ir might once have been necessary to introduce a work like this with a labored argument to prove the importance of connecting exercises in reading and writing a language with the study of its grammar. Happily for the cause of education, that necessity no longer exists. At the same time, it appears to me entirely obvious, that it is best, in most cases, that the student should learn the first principles of a language from the grammar which he is afterwards to use, and not from a book of lessons or exercises which he will study for a short time, and then throw aside not to be again taken up. No one is ignorant of the peculiar tenacity of first impressions, and of the great dependence of the memory upon local association. It may be added, that, in the gradual work of learning the grammatical system of a language, it contributes greatly to rapid, thorough, and permanent attainment, that each point, as it is learned, should be learned in its appropriate place as a part of the system. Classification thus goes hand in hand with acquisition; and, instead of constituting a separate work requiring additional labor, presents itself as a lightener of the student's toils. For these reasons, the following work is designed as an accompaniment to the systematic study of the grammar, and not as an introduction to it; and those parts of the grammar which are required in connection with each exercise are referred to, and not extracted.

The Selections for Reading which are here presented have been taken entirely and without change from the Anabasis of Xenophon. That the student should obtain his first impressions of a language in its classic purity and familiar prose form will not, I think, be questioned in words, however much it may have been neglected in practice. This becomes especially important, when the reading lessons are made, as they always should be, models for composition in the language.

The selections have been restricted to a single author and a single work for several reasons. seems undesirable that the student, in his first attempts to read and write a language, should be distracted by diversities of style. In reading detached passages, one often wishes to examine the connection from which they have been taken. This can be done with ease, when they have been all extracted from a single familiar work. For those who will pass from these Lessons to the Anabasis, there are special advantages. They will come to the reading of that charming work no strangers, but having already a familiarity with its vocabulary, and some degree of acquaintance with its style and subject-matter. And, as they read sentence after sentence upon its attractive pages, they will recognize many an old friend; and will now obtain that intimacy of acquaintance which, with sentences as with men, can only be got at their homes. Their introductory acquisitions have now lost that isolated, lifeless character, which is so apt to belong to mere select sentences; and have become vital parts of an interesting whole. The student leaves his first lessons, not, as too often happens, to forget them, but to repeat them as portions of a delightful narrative. It may be added, that the very character of the Anabasis excludes, for the most part, those abstract sentences, which are wont to be the special stumbling-blocks in introductory lessons.

The Notes and Vocabulary, in connection with the author's Grammar, which contains so many citations from the Anabasis, will, it is hoped, be found to supply abundant aid and illustration; and yet, it is believed, not more than is desirable in a work of this kind. It is not wise to harass a student's first essays in a new language with needless difficulties. Upon this principle, I have sought rather to diminish than to multiply the number of distinct words introduced; and have sometimes chosen to repeat a selection with additions, rather than introduce one that should be entirely new.

To give unity to the student's labors, and to avoid all unnecessary increase of them, the Exercises in Translation from English into Greek have been simply based upon the reading lessons, and require no words which have not previously occurred in these lessons. Indeed the close conformity of the two series will, it is believed, afford valuable assistance in the reading lessons themselves. No English-Greek vocabulary has been given; because, constructed as the exercises are, it has been supposed that such a vocabulary would not only be useless, but positively injurious, diverting the student from the proper source of aid, the Greek text. In all cases in which it was thought possible that the student could be at a loss, reference has been made to the page and line where the required word or construction has occurred.

A few special suggestions and explanations are subjoined.

- 1. It is earnestly recommended, that these Lessons should be studied, paragraph by paragraph, according to the following method.

 (I.) Let the student observe the special directions prefixed to the Notes, and carefully learn the portions of the Grammar there pointed out. (II.) Let him then learn to construe the paragraph, and to parse every word in full according to the table in ¶ 65. (III.) Let him translate into Greek the corresponding Exercises, never omitting to do this before proceeding to a new paragraph.
- 2. The numbers inclosed in parentheses at the bottom of a page of the Greek text denote the lines upon the page, and are followed by references to the parts of the Anabasis from which the selections commencing in each line have been taken. These references are made to book, chapter, and section, according to the common division.
- 3. By the Greeks, soldiers, generals, and captains mentioned in the text will be generally understood those belonging to the army with which Cyrus the Younger made his ill-fated expedition against his brother Artaxerxes; and by the countries, cities, villages, rivers, barbarians, and enemies, those which these Greeks found in their route.
- 4. Numbers preceded by the mark § refer to sections of the author's Greek Grammar; and those proceeded by the mark ¶, to paragraphs of the Tables prefixed to the Grammar. The letter f immediately attached to a number signifies and the following.
- 5. In the Exercises (pp. 67-89), a few words are printed in Italics, to show that they are to be omitted in the Greek; a few are inclosed in brackets [], to show that they are to be inserted in the Greek; and a few are printed in small capitals, to direct special attention to them. The Greek idiom is sometimes given in Italics at the bottom of the page. The small figures at the top of the line refer to page and line of the Greek text.
 - 6. The Greek has, in general, great freedom in respect to the arrangement of words; and their position depends, in no small degree, upon their comparative emphasis, and upon the effect produced on the ear. In general, the first place in a clause is the most emphatic, and the last place the next so. The student will observe carefully the special precepts upon the position of words, which he finds either here or in the Grammar; and, in all doubtful cases, will be wise in adhering closely to the order of his models in the Greek text.

- 7. In the Vocabulary, the words inclosed in parentheses to mark derivation or composition are translated, except when they also occur in the alphabetical arrangement; and a few words not belonging to the text are inserted in brackets to avoid repeated translation. Some English words derived from Greek words, or cognate with them, are inserted in small capitals, chiefly as aids to the memory. The gender of nouns has been marked in the usual way, except when general rules rendered it needless ($\S\S$ 74. \S , 75, 76).
- 8. Of the abbreviations which occur, compos. denotes composition; cons., consonant; dim., diminutive; esp., especially; impers., impersonal; indecl., indeclinable; L., Line; Less., Lesson; P., Page; pers., person or personal; prop., properly; R., Rule; r., root; subst., substantively; Voc., Vocabulary. Most of the abbreviations, as occurring in the Grammar and there explained, require no special notice.
- 9. Let the student, amid those introductory difficulties and toils from which no worthy pursuit is wholly exempt, cheer himself with the assurance, that the saying of old Hesiod, The beginning is half of the whole work, applies to nothing with greater force than to the learning of a language; nor let him forget that other proverb, Εδ σοι τὸ μέλλον ἔξει, ἡν τὸ παρὸν εδ τιθῆs, Your future course will be prosperous, if your present work be well done. Especially, let him bear in mind, that he is studying the language which has been the most celebrated of all for beauty and perfection of structure; the language in which are enshrined, as jewels in a casket of gold, the most wonderful monuments of ancient genius, and the priceless treasures of the Christian revelation; the language in which Homer sung, Socrates conversed, Demosthenes harangued, Paul wrote, and, highest honor of all, the words of Him who spake as never man spake were recorded.

e. In βουλεύω (¶ 34), what is the affix? What is then the root (§ 170.

a)? What is the characteristic (i. e. the last letter of the root)? Is the verb pure or impure (i. e. does its root end with a vowel or a consonant)?

f. Inflect the Present Active of βουλούω through all the modes, by adding to the root the affixes learned from ¶ 29. Write this inflection, comparing it with ¶ 34 (see ¶ 4. I. 3); and also repeat it vivâ voce, carefully observing the pronunciation. Learn the corresponding English through all the modes, numbers, and persons (¶¶ 33, 4. III.).

REMARK. A similar method is recommended in learning all the paradigms; viz. (1.) to ascertain the root, affixes, &c.; (2.) from these elements to construct the forms, both writing them, and also repeating them viva voce till they become perfectly familiar; and (3.) to learn at the same time the corresponding English.]

1. [Page 13.] Line 1. Ἐπιβουλεύει, he is plotting, or he plots. In parsing a verb compounded with a preposition, time may be saved by not repeating the preposition with each form; thus, Ἐπιβουλεύει is a regular verb, from ἐπιβουλεύω, βουλεύσω, βεβούλευκα; compounded of ἐπί and βουλεύω; root βουλεύ-, affix -ει; in the present indicative active; βουλεύω, βουλεύω, βουλεύω, βουλεύει, βουλεύει, βουλεύει, βουλεύων · βουλεύων · βουλεύεις, βουλεύεις, βουλεύουσι, βουλεύειτον · in the third person singular, agreeing with a pronoun implied in the affix (§ 545). Rule xxix. A verb agrees with its subject in number and person (¶ 64, § 543). — Ἐπιβουλεύουσιν,

- § 66. 1. By ι, in the rule, simple ι is to be understood. 2. Συμβουλεύω, Συμβουλεύετε, § 54. 1. The preposition here found in composition has two forms, the earlier ξύν, and the later σύν (§ 70. v.). In the Vocabulary, its compounds are arranged under σ. — 3. καί, R. xxxv., § 654. — Παῖε, . βάλλε, Strike! strike! throw! throw!
- 2. L. 4. Où, R. XXXIII., § 646. 5. Mỳ θαυμάζετε, do not wonder. The use of μή shows that θαυμάζετε is in the imperative. The indicative you do not wonder would be expressed by οὐ θαυμάζετε (§ 647). The following is the general rule in respect to the use oὐ and μή in negative sentences: If the sentence expresses assertion (whether directly or indirectly, whether with or without condition), use οὐ; otherwise, μή (as in expressions of wish, prohibition, condition, purpose, &c.). The rule extends to οὐ and μή in composition with other words. Οὐκ, § 68. 2. Καίωμεν, let us burn, §§ 597. β, 598. 6. Μỳ μέλλωμεν, let us not delay. ἄρχειν, to rule, R. XXX., § 620. b. 7. Συλλαμβάνει, § 54. 3. Εἰ μὲν ξ. Here μέν corresponds to δέ in a subsequent clause not quoted.

TRANSLATION FROM ENGLISH INTO GREEK.

I.

- 1. I am plotting. We plot. You plot. You two are plotting. They advise. We are throwing and striking. They two advise. To plot. To strike and throw. Let him advise. Let them advised. Do you be plotting. Let them strike and throw. Advised. Do you two be throwing and striking. Let us advised. Let us strike. You two are plotting. Let us plot. Let them two strike and throw.
 - 2. He says. They wonder. Let him learn to rule. Do not delay. You do not delay. He does not advise. Let him not advise. We do not wonder. Let us not wonder. They are not willing to learn. Do not burn. Let them not rule. I do not wish to speak. We are learning to teach. If indeed we should advise. But let him consider. If he should wish to advise. Let them not arrest.

II.

1. Cyrus sends Lycius. Chirisophus apprehends Phalinus. Lycius and Phalinus plot against Callimachus. Let us bring stones, and not delay. Thereupon [now] Cyrus wonders. Let the Lacedemonians rule. O Cyrus, they wonder. I do not wonder, [O] Cyrus.

⁽a) This may be either singular or plural. When the English admits more than a single form in Greek, it will often be useful to write all the forms which are admissible. (b) Dual. (c) Observe carefully in respect to the use of ν paragogic, § 66. (d) § 213. 3. (e) 2 Pers. Sing. or Plur. Imperat. (f) Subj., §§ 597. β , 598. 1. (g) Observe carefully the distinction between $s\bar{\nu}$ and $\mu\bar{\nu}$. (h) Use great care in respect to the position of particles, and of other words in connection with them. (i) Arrange this in six different ways. (j) The Greek sign of address $\bar{\nu}$ is less emphatic than the English O, and is hence more frequently used.

2. Cyrus sends vessels. Thence Clearchus advances five day's-marches. O Lacedæmonians, send vessels and money to Cyrus's. If indeed the sun should rise. They suddenly hear a tumult. Cyrus has no vessels^b. Clearchus, carry back word to Cyrus. Ariæus has indeed no money, but he has five vessels. We bring no money. Do not send vessels. They send no vessels. Let them send no vessels. Thereupon Proxenus burns five vessels. Let us go up, for the sun is rising.

III.

- 1. Let us take counsel. Let them learn both to rule and to be ruled. Clearchus, if you wish, speak. But, if they will, let them remain. Let Proxenus march. Clearchus is not willing to journey with Ariæus. Let us not march with Cyrus. O Lacedæmonians, let us consult together. Let them march, if they will.
- 2. Thereupon Cyrus sends for Clearchus. Clearchus and Proxenus are persuaded. We are not willing to obey, nor to follow. But, if you desire, go up. Do not, by the gods, be insane. Do not, then, depart. Suddenly the sun appears. And may they arrive safely! But now let us go forth with javelins. Lycius brings five leathern bags to Chirisophus. They are not ashamed before either men or gods. May you now depart safely! Do not suppose, Lacedæmonians. We are not mad.

IV.

- 1. Cyrus sends for Ctesias. Orontes is arrested. Cyrus advances five parasangs. Agasias of Stymphālus, a captain, comes up and arrests five robbers. Thereupon thirty robbers approach with javelins and leathern bags. A robber wounds Agasias. It is said. Do not wonder, Agasias. Orontes, are you not ashamed before either men or gods?
- Phrygia produces barley, wheat, sesame, millet, and panici. Mithridates writes a letter, and sends it to Cyrus. They

V.

1. A narrow pass appears. A thousand wild asses approach. White clouds appear. They march through Phrygia, a friendly country. Two carriage roads, very steep and narrow. Cyrus sends to Clearchus fourteen hundred heavy-armed men. We have no strongholds. Agasias goes forth with hoplites and other soldiers, twenty-four hundred in all. They carry goat-skins, sacks, and other receptacles.

2. The robbers bring stones. The soldiers so judge. And on the fourth day, Cyrus with two thousand heavy-armed troops descends into the plain. On a sudden^{13, 17} Lycius closes the gates, and inserts a strong bar. But let us not leave the place by flight. The soldiers are in great need of p a common deliverance.

3. But on the fourth day the trumpeters give a signal. Thereupon the heads of the robbers are cut off. If indeed^{13, 7} the deity should so direct. Mithridates flies at full speed, and throws himself into the sea. The truce remains. The soldiers wonder at^{13, 5} the truce.

4. Mithridates therefore comes again to Orontes. But Seuthes escapes into the stronghold. He descends into the villages upon the springs of the river Centrites. Proxenus therefore ascends into the citadel above the plain. He escapes into the village over the plain which lies along the river Marsyas.

5. The master of each village. Let us strive for an honorable death. The hoplites fly at full speed through the midst of the plain. The soldiers of Cyrus come against my country. The friends of our brother leave the citadel by flight. From this day let the truce remain. Let us cease from that design. They flee out of that country.

6. From that day the Lacedæmonians rule upon the sea and upon the land. Seuthes rules at the present time. It is said in the preceding narrative. The heavy-armed cross with difficulty the river Centrites. Ctesias says that the Persians also expose themselves in war with their heads unprotected. Clearchus sends two thousand heavy-armed troops, and about ten thousand targeteers. Cyrus is plotting against^{13. 11} his^b brother. They traduce Seuthes to the friends of his brother.

7. Suddenly^{18, 17} the rest of the enemy appear upon the plain beside the sea^{14, 18}. The one traduces the other. The barbarians slay both Clearchus and many of the others. The rest of the soldiers give way and flee.

8. But on the next day Cyrus sends for the rest of the generals. The enemy quit the plain without resistance. Cyrus sends back Proxenus and his men into Lydia. The men from the villages upon the right descend^{15, 2} into the plain. On the fourth day^{15, 2}, Tissaphernes and Ariæus with their men^c leave the hill. He sends for the Cilician queen.

9. Come into the centre of the plain. For they have our property. On the next day Cyrus sends for the Arcadian infantry. They wonder at the fate of Clearchus. One teaches^{13.7} one thing, and another another. The physician has come opportunely. The soldiers take supplies. Do not wonder at our affairs. They die^{15.16} in the midst of the way homeward.

And HE^d is both persuaded, and sends away^{16.1} his brother. He arrests Lycius the son of Phalīnus a Syracusan. But

THEY have the fruits of my toils.

11. Cyrus sends back the two messengers, and Orontes with them. Tissaphernes falsely accuses Cyrus of plotting against his brother. Tissaphernes and those with him burn the very wood from the houses. They burn the wood from the same houses. They burn the wood from the very houses. The soldiers themselves gather wood from the same place. The same soldiers gather wood. Upon the same day they themselves bring him to Chirisophus. They bring the man himself to Clearchus. You yourselves are burning the houses. And let us take some of the colts ourselves.

- 1. The barbarians said to Clearchus, that they had come^r respecting a truce. The soldiers themselves said, that they were deliberating in common about the rest of their journey. Tracks of horses appear. Thereupon the targeteers themselves take some of ^{16.25} the same horses. On the same day Seuthes was hunting on horseback. And he cheerfully complied, for he confided in the Lacedæmonians.
- 2. The barbarians wondered that Cyrus made war upon his brother Artaxerxes. The soldiers wondered that the generals nowhere appeared. The captains were angry with the soldiers. But he himself, with the rest of the captains, remained at the door. And again upon the fourth day they consulted the gods by sacrificeh in respect to the way homeward 16.11. The barbarians remained, for they trusted in their strongholds.

3. Two young men' ran forward from the trees. Clearchus sends for the rest of the heavy-armed, and with them ascends upon the second hill. The unprincipled plot against the good^{16, 12}. And others, when the day began to dawn, descended in silence into the plain, and made a secure attack^k upon the enemy^{15, 26}.

4. The friends^{15.18} of Cyrus were taking! Orontes by the girdle. The soldiers were inflicting severe blows. But the barbarians turn in flight, one one way, and another another. They were put to death^m by Cyrus. The generals took each his share of the money. The enemy leave only thirty alive. The rest are said to have met with their end. When the rout of the barbarians had taken place, the soldiers are said to have divided among themselves the prizes.

said to be very steep^{14.22}. Be ready. If indeed^{18.7} we are men. The fountains beside the road were beautiful. And the gods are judges of the contest. And the judges of the contest are gods. Let the soldiers be brave.

2. The Chaldmans wish to be friends and allies. Upon this 18. 11, the soldiers inquired about the Pisidians, whether they were friends or enemies. And Seuthes told where the villages were. For thus the matter stands. The expedition is said to be against the Lacedmennians. And Orontes the Chaldman is also present.

3. For there is a narrow pass between the trench and the Euphrates. There are beautiful villages beside the Euphrates. For I hear that there are suspicions. For it was now becoming dark. For it was now dark. But when it was now evening, he came to Cyrus. It was necessary to fight, for there was no money 18. 15. It is necessary to march 14. 4 along side of the river, for we have 18. 16 no vessels. Let us march, for it is now daybreak.

4. Here Orontes had a palace, a park', and beautiful villages. The generals have a suspicion. Here again the soldiers were dejected. The targeteers begin to run of their own accord upon the villages. Artaxerxes made war upon the Mysians and Chaldæans.

5. Let us give the signal^{15.6}, for it is now late. It is growing late. And when it was now about sunset, suddenly the barbarians appear upon the plain. The sun is setting. For it was now towards day.

6. It was not possible to take the villages. It is permitted to take some of 16, 23 the horses 16, 27. For we cannot have money.

But we could not obtain supplies.

7. It is now time to depart^{14.9}. The soldiers have leisure to hunt^{16.27} in the park. For it is necessary now to consult together^{18.2}. The circuit of the palace^{18.17} was a parasang.

2. We plot against them with good reason, for they have our property16.8. Do not wait for others to come to you. You and I have the same enemiest. We can' now take pledges from

3. They ride back to their own village. What age do you now wait for? Let them inflict severe14.28 blows upon each other. It is time for us to be upon our guard against them, as enemies. It is necessary 18.27 for you to deliberate for your own interest^m. For I am no longer general, but Clearchus.

IX.

- 1. It is safer for you to pursue^{17.2}, than for them. It was said, that Cyrus was both more kingly, and more worthy to rule, than his brother". We suffer most unjust treatment in being cast out among the barbarians. The soldiers were far more zealous than their generals. Let us knock upon the door 17.8 ourselves16. 19.
- 2. O Seuthes, most wonderful of men. O Tissaphernes, and ye others, as many as are friends of Artaxerxes, have you no respect for the gods? Thence Cyrus advances 13. 15 through Phrygia by the shortest and safest way. The Cilician queen sends back the most of her friends into Cilicia.
- 3. The worst men are worthy to suffer the severest punishment. For, first and greatest, your oaths by the gods forbid you to depart^{14.9}. The good counsel the best measures. Clearchus was nearer than Proxenus.
- 4. But Lycius made much the greatest haste^p. The barbarians escape15. 12 into the nearest villages. The enemy were now comingo nearer. The targeteers 15.22 ran much faster than the heavy-armed troops 15. 21. The soldiers ascend 13. 18 into the highest village. They watched 19. 17 each other more negligently.

X.

- 1. You honor me. You are honored by me. They were honored by us. The soldiers see two eagles. With the aid of the gods, we conquered many times our own number. The generals called aloud to the soldiers, both in Greek and in Persian. Honor the good. Thence we attempt to enter into Cappadocia. Let us strive to conquer the enemy. Strive to become good^{16, 12}. They said to the messenger^{16, 22}, that they were now conquering the enemy. Do not encamp in a bad place. He cried out in Greek, that Seuthes was near with few attendants^{16, 20}.
- 2. The rivers flow through the plain^{15, 2} of Cilicia into the sea^{14, 18}. The river was called Mæander. The barbarians call the river Marsyas. The soldiers ask Seuthes for money^{15, 15}. Ask Cyrus for your pay. Ask Cyrus for our-pay^a. They endeavoured to rob us of our pay. Soldiers, let us bring stones, and erect^b a mound.
- 3. The soldiers brought stones, and threw them into the sea. You fear us, as you yourselves acknowledge. We are the very persons whom they seek. To me, therefore, it seems to be no time for us to call the Persians together. Let us not neglect ourselves. It is time for Cyrus to apprehend Orontes. On the same day, Lycius arrives with four hundred targeteers. Epyaxa, the Cilician queen, summons to her tent the seven best of her attendants.
- 4. The soldiers encamp in the open air. Let Clearchus and Chirisophus take the lead, since they are also Lacedæmonians. With no good reason surely could you envy us. Let us no longer^{19,8} envy the wicked^{20,18}. We labor cheerfully, and acquire securely^{14,9}. First carry back word to the army^{15,1}, that there is need of silence^{17,16}. In the first place, Cyrus appears to be more modest than the rest; and in the second, to obey the most implicitly his elders. Callimachus was fonder of horses than Clearetus, and managed them⁶ with more confidence^f.
- 5. It is now time to feed the horses. The worst^{19.27} men are thought worthy to rule. They claim to be honored by us. He engages in earnest conversation, in order that he may show⁵ whom he honors. They engaged in earnest conversation, in order that they might show whom they honored^h. 6. The soldiers were exceedingly angry with their generals. I asked them how much gold they had. The two admirals were sick. On the next day^{16,2}, the messengers brought back word, that both Darius and the rest of the Persians commended us. He said that the robbers^{14,15} had again assembled. He said that the robbers were again assembling. They endeavoured^{20,16} to pass by force.

7. They commended the captains. They asked^{20.23} Cyrus for money and vessels. They had come, but Clearchas was still riding up. Here were found many vessels. They used the cords¹ which they found in the villages of the barbarians for their slings. The men whom Darius supposed to be faithful to himself, [them] he soon found to be more friendly to us than to him. We saw each other joyfully and embraced as friends. They said, that the Taochians inhabited strongholds. The others had not yet come. They used the lead in various ways¹.

8. Would that Clearchus were living^k! They had for arms small spears^{14, 19}. Would that the Chaldæans were free! Cyrus did not permit the generals to collect an assembly of their own soldiers. Permit us to open the door^{17, 9}. They saw the messengers at the door. One waited for^{21, 22} another. We gladly opened the gates. The targeteers were drawing up the hoplites. Would that you were ruling 13.6 justly 21.4!

9. For this was a custom with the Chaldæans'. Let these things be. He commanded these to remain, but the rest to proceed. This passage was narrow. These two passed through, and came within the inclosure 18. 29.

10. We had such an opinion respecting you. The admirals^{21, 17} said the same things. For these same persons command us to remain. They said thus much. And there are so many vessels. So great is the number of the enemy^m. Such were the wishes of the soldiersⁿ.

11. We say, when the north wind blows against us, that it is bad^{19.27} sailing. Tamos the admiral is well-disposed. He commanded the well-disposed to follow. Would^{21.30} that the gods were propitious! He bids Tamos conduct these from Ephesus. The dawn is beautiful. They fear^{20.25} the north wind. 2. I will conduct you in ten days to a spot from which you will see Byzantium. If b the gods are propitious 4, and so direct 15.8, you will take Byzantium without a battle. If you are well disposed^{22, 11}, you will follow me. They will tarry the present day. Send me to Ariæus. We will send with you bowmen, who will forthwith turn the enemy to flight. He sent

3. But they said to him, "Do not close the gates." And on the other hand do you show us, from what source you hear about And you yourself shall lead. We will follow them, and endeavour to imitate them. We hear, that you say to Artaxerxes, that Mithridates would never have attempted to burn the houses^{15, 15}, if we had not commanded him. Do not hear these men. But this robber 16. 15 may the gods requite!

4. They hunted in the park 15. 16, whenever they wished to exercise themselves and their horses. We will comply with this custom.

5. It will be difficult both to speak and to hear. At present^e he is satrap of Lydia.

- 6. We will provide pay for the soldiers. The enemy will not be able to march rapidly; and perhaps also they will be in want of provisions. They will not fight within thirty days. They took leave of us, as now upon the point of setting sail. But upon the fourth day, if 22.14 the north wind 22.10 blows, we shall sail away. And it is now time for us to consider, how we shall fight most successfully. When it is dark 18, 14, I shall put them on board.
- 7. I gave him a thousand darics. If he speaks the truth, I will give him a talent. The ten thousand daries we paid at that time, since the thirty days had passed.

2. Darius wished Parysatis, and the two children Artaxerxes and Cyrus, to be present.

3. They sailed five days and five nights with a contrary wind. The Cerasuntians were making a din with their spears against their shields. For he had nothing harsh in his disposition, but was always friendly 14.21 and kind 22.11. We should like extremely to hear the affair. When the soldiers were out of bread, they came to us.

4. When I had gained this success, I sent for the Thra-cians; and they came without trouble.

XIII.

1. And they asked again, "Shall we report war or peace?"
We shall remain here ten days. He will certainly reply to you soon. Clearchus waited for the targeteers.

2. Each one of the soldiers receives a daric a month; and each one of the generals fourfold. He gave golden crowns to the Greeks. We disembark at two fine^{16, 11} harbours, about the middle of Cilicia. The young men^{17, 14} answered, some with laughter, and others without^{24, 15}.

3. They asked Cleanor for guides. Meno the Thessalian took the lead of the left wing, and Clearchus, the Lacedæmonian exile, of the right. On the next day he sent for two companies of Meno's army. Thereupon he commands his attendants^{20, 29} to cut off the head and the right hand of Cyrus. I sent this messenger to Babylon to Artaxerxes.

4. Do not call me mother. Darius the father favors Artaxerxes. This man [here of dwells a neighbour to us. Do you, men of Greece, carry back this word to Cyrus. Apollo flayed Marsyas. He promises, that he will give to each one of the Greeks five minæ, when he arrives at Babylon. O father, answer me. We will obey 14. 7 our fathers.

6. Men of Greece^{25. 10}, who of you is so mad, that he is not willing to follow Cyrus? Say, Clearchus, what opinion you have respecting the march, whether we shall follow Cyrus or not. Hereupon^{25. 4} Meno, before it is evident what reply the other Greeks will make, assembles his own soldiers apart from the rest. It is evident what he will do.

7. This woman asked him, who he was. This will bring us honor in coming time. But what they would do, they did not signify. Do you then, as friends, give us that advice which seems to you to be most appropriate and useful. Tell us then, Seuthes, what you have in mind. To whomsoever it seems best to make the journey with us, let him hold up his right. 6 hand.

8. But if any one of you sees another course which is more honorable 16.11, let him mention it. The two lines were not more than four stadia apart 25.16. More than six hundred soldiers arrive at the village. Cyrus is worse towards you, than you are towards him.

XIV.

1. The rulers of these villages made^b Xenophon a companion at table, and bade him have no fear. The soldiers used the thongs^c for their slings^{21.23}.

2. He made all the citizens his friends. All the Lacedemonians, both men and women, took part in the feast. They rule the whole country.

3. Tissaphernes therefore goes up to Babylon, taking certain^{25.17} of the Greeks as friends. These men disgrace both their native city and the whole of Greece, that being Greeks they are so senseless^{18.8}. Being such, he will disgrace all the citizens. But the younger^{24.5} of the children happened not to be present. The brazen shields^{24.11} now and then shine through. This wild beast Hercules pursued. In these places the targeteers15.22 were more useful than the heavy-armed. But one of the heralds was a barbarian, Ariæus, who happened to be an attendant of Cyrus, and to be held in honor by him.

4. By this fountain Midas, the king of Phrygia, caught the Satyr. He is said to have mixed the fountain with wine. This brings honor^{26, 1} to the whole^{26, 17} city.

5. And these again were other pretexts to Orontes for writing the letter 27.28 to the king. Here Cyrus gave ten talents to Silanus, the Ambraciot soothsayer. He sent to Artaxerxes the tribute accruing from the city which this satrap happened to have.

6. And the depth of the fountain was two fathoms. He flees to the mountain with his wife and children. At last they deserted their houses. We have need of 28.1 brazen helmets, and purple tunics, and greaves.

7. The width of the river Cydnus was two hundred feet. Through the midst of the plain 15.2 flows a river four hundred feet in width. The Cretans, deserting the city, fled with all speed to the mountains. And they were about fifty years old, when they diedd.

8. No one either sneers at you as a coward in war, or blames you in respect to friendship. Agias and Socrates were both, when they died, about thirty-five years old.

9. And in the sacred district they found on swine, sheep, goats, fowls, and their young. In the sacred groves were many goats and swine. But there is in this country 15. 17 a mountain covered with trees, capable of supporting oxen and horses^{17.4}. The meadows were full of oxen, sheep, and goats.

10. The barbarians gazed upon the Argo in silence 17. 16. They sailed with a fair wind along the Jasonian shore, where the Argo came to anchor.

11. And meanwhile a false report goes abroad, that Cyrus will pursue them with a trireme. But these things indeed were true. The Cretans fled down the steep, and disappeared. They thought that the shortest way to the accomplishment of their desires was through sincerity and truth; and falsehoodk they considered to be the same with folly. All men blame 89.8 perjury and deceit.

12. They cross^{15.24} a ravine very broad and deep. They request us to drink this wine to-day with our dearest friends".

They said, that for a long time certainly they had not metⁿ with a finer 16. 11 harbour than this. They said, that above half of the whole army were Arcadians. The mouth of the river is broad and deep. He sent to his friends a jar of wine half full. Falsehoodo is often more agreeable than truth.

13. The amount of time occupied by the journey 17.1 was four months and ten days. The breadth 28.28 of the river was three stadia.

XVI.

1. And thence they march^{14.4} through^{14.16} a plain large and beautiful, well watered, and full of trees of every kind.

2. In the river Chalus are large and tame fishes, which the Syrians regard as deities. They permit neither 16. 10 fishes nor doves to be injured^r.

3. They rushed up to Xenophon, saying: "Now, Xenophon, it is in your power to become great." He has so many cities and men. Now, Thracians, if you were willing, both you might benefit me, and I would make you free 17. 29.

4. And while the Greeks were encamped, much rain fell in the night. The women wept for a long time upon the mountains.

5. The Greeks regarded Jupiter as king of all the gods. They sacrificed to Hercules in respect to the journey^{17.1}. he arrived at his tent19. 15 safe. The name of this city is Corsote. The river Mascas flows around the city. He wore something black before his eyes, as he marched'.

6. He remained three days in Issus, the last inhabited city of Cilicia upon the sea-shore^u, a city large and prosperous. And here Pythagoras, the Lacedæmonian admiral, came to the aid of Cyrus with the ships from the Peloponnesus. With these triremes^{29, 18}, five-and-twenty in number, Tamos besieges Miletus, and assists Cyrus in the war against Tissaphernes. Anaxibius was admiral over these ships. He anchored 29.11 the vessel beside the camp^{80, 20}. The vessel of Tamos lay at anchor in the harbour^{24, 24}. The two generals arrived^{30, 20} in the ship, having been sent for by the king 87. 28.

1. This river separates the country of the Thracians from that of the Mysians. In this way he marched three parasangs; and when he was marching the fourth, he saw an eagle to upon the right 16.6. No one of the Greeks was shot in this battle. Three horsemen 77.25 were shot upon the left wing. Nor did ANY OTHER ONE of the soldiers find any thing in this march 17.1.

2. The robbers 14. 15 will all 26. 11 be apprehended. He was said to have been sent down by the great king as satrap of Phrygia.

Very many were taken, and very few were left behind.

3. He asked^{25, 81}, what^b would be done^c. They were arranged four deep, the troops of Clearchus upon^{31, 15} the left, those of Meno^d upon the right, and the rest in the centre. Cyrus was said to have been greatly disturbed. He said that this had been done. He had^c the worst^{19, 27} assistants in every work.

4. Cyrus often sent wine to his friends, whenever he obtained any which was very pleasant^{29, 25}, bidding those who bore¹ it also to say, "Cyrus was greatly pleased with this; therefore he wishes you also to taste of it." We shall be compelled to flee^{15, 8}. Brazen helmets and purple tunics^{28, 26} will be provided for the soldiers.

5. And the citizens^{28.11} hearing this were greatly disturbed^{31.22}, fearing lest the whole city should be consumed. Cyrus exhibited his whole army to the Cilician queen at her request⁵. The generals took care, that all should be well^h. They withdrew the left wing from the sea. We were afraid lest we should be surrounded by the enemy on both sides.

6. Fearing lest we should be intercepted, we fled with all speed. Then it was at once perceived, in what kind of circumstances we were. Then we suspected^{21.18}, that the man had been insidiously sent by Tissaphernes. For let him recollect, in what circumstances he happened to be.

7. The generals feared lest they should be taken and beheaded. They were said to have been vexed, and to have been afraid lest they should lose the friendship of the king. They will be carried up to the king and beheaded.

8. They feared lest they should be delivered up to the satrap. He was carried up to Babylon, to be beheaded. They set forth from the camp^{30, 30}, to pursue the barbarians. They recollected two eagles screaming upon their right.

- 9. Show yourself the best of the soldiers. They feared lest the enemy would appear upon the next day. On the third day, we deliberated with the ambassadors^{28, 12}, whether we should pursue the rest of our way by land or by sea. The next day, the soldiers assembled and deliberated, how the dead might be buried.
- 10. When the generals had been called into the tent^{18, 15} of Tissaphernes, they were seized by the barbarians. And not long after they were delivered up to the king. At the same signal, both those within the tent will be apprehended, and those without at the door will be cut down.

XVIII.

- 1. Such has been^m the conduct of the men, and such are their wordsⁿ. You, Tissaphernes, have perjured yourself and broken the truce. For good order has saved many armies^{22.1}, and disorder has destroyed many. The generals whom we have mentioned, set forth from Sardis with Cyrus. We have now regained our courage, and, methinks, all the other soldiers also.
- 2. At the present time^{15, 21}, the Lacedæmonians preside over the Grecian cities. Lead forward directly against the barbarians, so that you may not be standing still, since you have seen the enemy and been seen by them. Xenias has deserted his friends. The Persians consider themselves victorious, since they have slain Cyrus. There stand in the sacred grove^{29, 7} two pillars, bearing inscriptions.

3. Thereupon certain men of the army came to the generals, saying that they understood the language of these barbarians. We have been slaves at Athens. And before he had slain his brother!^{6, 22}, he thought that he was already victor.

4. It is probable that the city will be taken at daybreak. Having heard this statement, the generals said, that they did not commend the messengers, if they had pursued such a course. On the next day he sent messengers to say, that Xenias and Pasio had deserted the army. After this, Orontes was never seen by any one either dead or alive. The city is

5. He wore a small tunic, not reaching below the knee. They were standing beside the door. They said, that the robbers 14. 15 had taken many sheep. On the same day messengers came with the intelligence, that many had climbed up, and that the place had been taken. The enemy had regained their courage 22. 23. Who will take the place of Neon the Asinæan? Advise the citizens 26. 11 to sacrifice to the gods as they have been wont to do.

6. Fellow-citizens, your work is done. See, then, that you be a man worthy of the honors. which you possess, and for which I congratulate you. And whoever of us desires to behold his native land. It, let him be a brave man. Remember to be bold. men; for it is not possible to obtain freedom in any other way.

7. We confess, then, that we have been unjust towards our allies^{18.4}. So that we, from what we hear, judge no man to have been more prosperous. No man has ever^{39.16} been more^{20.11} loved, either by Greeks or barbarians. He is not willing^{14.4} to remain, on account of the dispersion of his heavy-armed troops^{15.21}.

8. These villages, in which we are now encamping, are said to have been given to Parysatis for her girdle. After this, Xenophon, encamped near the city, waited for the heralds^{22, 23} more than ten days. These happened to have been stationed upon the right^{31, 23} near the cavalry; and, when they perceived that the general was dead^{32, 15}, they fled with all speed^{32, 5}. And when now it was evening^{18, 11}, the Greeks cross the bridge, formed by the union of twenty-three boats.

9. And at the same time he showed them Lydians with their ears bored. We saw a man with both his legs crushed. In our march we found villages beside the river in possession of the Thracians. They find many soldiers separated from the rest of the army. They pointed out a man with both his hands cut off. 4.

10. And, after the woman had been brought to the generals, they ask her, if she has anywhere seen other companies. 1 composed of Greeks. The messengers said, that the hill above the way had been seized by the barbarians. When he had been brought to Tissaphernes, he related every thing that had taken place. The Pisidians are said to have all gathered in a circle around the exiles. 21.

The soothsayer had expressed the opinion, that there would be a rout^{17.23} of the enemy. The result of the battle will be favorable. Let the gates be kept closed, and let arms appear now and then^{26.19} upon the wall.
- 12. At Lampsacus, Euclides, the son of the Cleagoras who painted the picture of the Dreams, congratulated him upon his safe return.
- 13. Upon your doing this, I shall immediately withdraw; so that you will have no guide s. 2 left. For, if you will do this, consider that no friend will be left you. Upon the same day, both I shall be immediately cut down, and you yourselves not long after. Ariæus stood aloof. They had been cut down by the horsemen.

- 1. We gladly^{31.26} saw the enemy no longer standing their ground, but flying with all speed^{32.5}. O most wonderful^{33.32} man, you surely do not even^{34.1} understand this, that the south wind carries us within the Pontus to Phasis. And they say that they themselves healed the wounds of the king. At daybreak, he sent certain persons^{25.17} to signify, what the soldiers must do⁵.
- 2. Certain of the soldiers of Meno, as they see Clearchus riding back^{19.15} to his own tent, let fly with their axes. We tie up a cross dog through the day, but let him loose at night^q. But if we are wise, we shall treat this man in a contrary manner.
- 3. They give to him twenty horses. Having bound the prisoners^{17, 28} he delivers them up to the king.
- 4. He puts to death both Clearchus himself, and the other generals. You mingle with the citizens^{26, 11}. While they are speaking, I sneeze.
- 5. If you are wise, you will depart hence out of the power of this man. If you enter, you will be apprehended by the guards. He will advance silently 17.16.

false; and they said 'yes.' He asked them if they were targeteers^{15.22}; they said 'no.' They are unable to march rapidly. As the general himself said. He marches as rapidly as possible.

7. He threw off his purple cloak, where he happened to be standing. He gave to the soldiers permission to take whatever they pleased. As he was speaking, they both^{29.4} sneezed. After this, permission to depart^{14.9} is given to all who wish. He feared lest he should be intercepted. They rose, arrayed as handsomely as was in their power. He rushes forward, as one would run for safety^{15.4}.

8. He exhibited the head of the satrap both to the Thracians and to his own soldiers. And upon these mountains^{30, 17} they found^{31, 32} much snow, and cold so intense that even the wine^{30, 34} which they carried in goat-skins^{14, 10} froze. They all deserted to Cyrus. No one of you came into this city. We departed with good courage.

9. As soon as they had said this, they rose up. And the enemy, as soon as they had heard this, departed. The barbarians, having erected a trophy as victors, ascended upon the mountain. And when we had descended into the plain, we sacrificed an ox^{20,5}, and erected a trophy. We appointed three surgeons only 17. 21, for the wounded were few 16. 20.

10. And leaping down from their horses, they put on linen 25. 26 corselets. And, when the messengers had said this, he knew that his fear was groundless, and that the army was safe. He delivered 4 the skins of the oxen to the young men 17. 14. We attacked the rear 6 of the barbarians, and slew many. And triremes 29. 13 were taken to the number of twenty, and all the transports 29. 14.

11. Pasio has deserted us; but let him know well, that he has neither escaped by concealment nor by flight. For we both know whither he has gone, and have a swift trireme, so that we can take his transport vessel. Be well assured, that we are friends.

12. But let him go, conscious that he is vile and worthy so at of blows 1. We deliver these things to you, Charminus; and do you, having disposed of them, make distribution to the soldiers. For the present therefore, Xenophon, depart, leaving these men; and when we bid, be present at the trial.

14. Stand to your arms around the tent. He bade the captains^{11, 14} inflict punishment upon the fugitives^{22, 21}. He commanded the Pisidians to give up the exiles; and they gave them up.

15. The king gave to Orontes a large sum of money. Exhibit your training. But he said that he should not himself be present at the trial^{37.19}. For who will be willing to go as heralds, after having slain a herald?

16. Having mounted his horse in the night, he rode off to his own country. 1. 21. On the next day. 16. 2 they all ran off. He stopped, wherever he might happen to be. The enemy collected in a body. I am afraid, that they will run off in the night.

17. Place your shield against your knee. Read the letter, Socrates, and then advise^{13.9} mel respecting the expedition^{18.6}. Give and take the right hand^m. Read these letters. Embark in the vessel, and put on board your most valuable effects. He practised shooting, sending high into the air. They had as guides the women who had been taken prisonersⁿ.

18. The cold^{36.23} froze both my ears^{3i.19}. They asked, who was the satrap of the country. A noise ran° through the ranks of the army. He said, that upon the following morning the Persians would come to give battle. Depart in the night.

19. Endeavour, so far as you may be able, to do good to others. Be upon your guard, lest the king attack you in the night. There were many barbarians in the neighbouring village 15. 18. They roused many partridges in the park.

20. He said that he would not remain^{14. 3}, unless they would give him money. Therefore we do not fear this, that we may not have enough to bestow upon our friends, but that we may not have friends enough to receive⁴. If you are taken within the city, you will be sold. The king says, that, if we go to him, he will treat us well. Let us not go against the Pisidians. If you go against the men, you will conquer^{20. 14}. Deliver him up to the citizens to judge, and then to do' with him whatever they may please.

the enemy. He considered, how he might cross the river best, and both conquer those before and suffer no evil from those behind.

22. They showed, that they regarded it of the utmost consequence, if they had made an engagement with any one, to observe it implicitly. They inflicted punishment 37.30 upon this man, in order that it might produce fear in others also. May the gods not allow the war!

23. They asked him, if he would give them money. The Greeks gave a lance to the Macronians.

24. He said, that he would sooner die, than deliver up his shield24.11. We answered, that we would sooner die, than betray the exiles^{87,81}. If they gave, they would give for this end, that giving to us a smaller, they might not pay to you the larger sum^c. He deliberated, whether he should send another, or go himself to assist.
